Websites

1. EVonline: Electric Vehicle History Online Archive. 1997 – 1999. Site development funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation to collect information about electric vehicle drivers in the 1990s. Distributed survey data collected from more than 200 hobbyists and production-vehicle EV drivers. Permanent repository located at Stanford University Libraries.
2. Business Plan Archive (www.businessplanarchive.org). 2002 – present. Site development funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation to preserve “at risk” digital records of Dot Com Era firms. 62,000+ registered users have access to business planning documents from more than 2,400 firms. Users include academic researchers, teaching faculty and students.
3. Dot Com Archive (www.dotcomarchive.org). 2003 – present. Site development funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation to collect personal stories of stakeholders in Dot Com Era companies. Collections currently include more than 300 long-form responses from former founders, employees and customers.
4. Brobeck Closed Archive (www.brobeckclosedarchive.org). 2006 – present. Site development funded by the Library of Congress, National Digital Information Infrastructure Preservation Project to share information about fate of born-digital Brobeck records with former clients and other stakeholders.

Contracts and Grants

Digital History

1. Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. Co-Principle Investigator. January 1997 - December 1999. $74,000 grant to establish internet web sites for history of technology research. Collecting web site used web-based technologies to collect primary historical materials from electric vehicle drivers. Archived site available, <http://sloan.stanford.edu/evoline>.
2. Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. Principle Investigator. January 2002 – September 2007. $300,500 grant to assemble Digital Archive of the Birth of the Dot Com Era to preserve “at risk” digital history of internet technology companies. First website available at <http://www.businessplanarchive.org>. Initial creation of the Archive was featured in The Washington Post, The New York Times, The Chronicle of Higher Education and other publications.
